I have a suggestion for Heromorph. I think more members should make comments on the art posted in the different galleries. I am sure all of the artists here love to hear from others how good their art is (I know I do) and most like to have suggestions and tips on how they can improve their art (once again, I know I do).

When I first joined this site there seemed to be a lot more comments made about the art. I don't know why that has seemed to drop off. (I have seen pictures that have been selected for "picture of the week" that had no comments.) I assume people look at the posted art, so if you like it or see a glaring mistake or have a helpful tip why not say something. It only takes a minute and most artists will appreciate the comment

If you post art on Heromorph (and some are heavy posters) how about taking a few minutes to post comments on someone else's art and let them know how they are doing. I do.
