Captain Critique and the amazing review crew

it was started around when the site was about one year old and people started saying they did not get enough comments and a thread like this was started.

Yeah I remember that. I signed up but was never told whether or not I was accepted. The bottom line here is that like many fanart sites, people have their favorites who they always comment on either because of friendship or the fact that the artwork is so good you can't help but say something. Don't get discouraged about it and don't let it stop you from posting your work. I'll admit that it's always nice to have someone comment on your work, but to be honest HM has gotten so big with so many different genre of art and so many different posts per day that it's almost impossible to keep up with both new posts and old. Here's a tip though: The fanbase here is at least 95% male! What catches a man's attention more than perhaps sports and money? HOT BABES!!

Now you take that info and use it however you want!
