Thank you for the clarification. I like being able to post stuff here rather than the HFC (which doesn't exist - or does it..?) because I don't like eating up server storage for stuff that isn't really finished, or won't be finished. Linking to it is just more efficient.

Also, not sure what happened with that link down below. Went to check it at imageshack and the link was still there, but the picture was gone. I notice they've been doing that quite a bit lately. I removed the link from that posting so that should stop any future crashes. Let me know if any of the other ones stop working.

To make up for it, anyone needing something to color could go to work on this if they want...(I have a finished version up in the comic gallery somewhere, but you're welcome to take a shot at it if you'd like.)
