Damn!!! This sucks...

But I agree with most of the suggestions made here, like the size limit and encourage people to post a link to some before/after pics and maybe if they want to show a larger version of the image they've post as well.

To remove the latest pics submitted from the front page, I think that's a good idea. After all, there is a link to them already at the bottom of the front page, anyway...

The HP things, that I like but if needed to go, no problem.

In my opinion, I think if sacrifices need to be made in order to keep the site running, then let's make them.

If that means remove some things from the lurkers and encourage them to become members, that's not such a bad idea.

I really love this place and I don't want to see it lost.

Just hope we can work our way around this problem and keep being one of the best places in the web.

Just don't want to be scared again like when tried to log in last night and get a message "Site Not Found".

Keep up the great work, guys. And if help needed, just ask.

I'm sure i'm not the only one that thinks that.
