I never knew I was a 'lurker'! But I now assume that title is given to someone who doesn't upload images (?). Now, I've been a member for some years but 2 things - (1) lack of artistic skill and (2) arthritis - have contributed to my 'lurker' status. For those like me who love the site, can't artistically contribute and wouldn't want to see its demise, would an annual subscription (a 'Golden Lurker' membership) help in any way?

Actually the people Hawk is refering to are non-members. they are called lurkers because they lurk in the shadows without announcing their presence or giving names. Being a member and just not posting (words or pics) is really lurking. It's just not contributing to the community. Savvy?
