Ty, I really need that. I look at all the stuff you guys crank out in a matter of days and realize it has more detail than stuff that takes me years to not even finish (albeit, most 'cuz I set it aside and work on other stuff 'cuz I just don't have the skills to finish it yet). It helps knowing people who actually know what good looks like also think I'm good.

I look forward to more!

I like to do lots of detail because it helps develop the artline...continue to work with dedication and you collect benefits later on
