

Forum: HM General Chit Chat

Topic: Cloverfield

Subject: Re: Cloverfield

Posted by: Dark Wanderer

Posted on: 2008/1/20 11:57:11

I saw it last night and personally I thought it was brilliant. I felt it lived up to the hype. It was brilliant because you are only following the story as told by those with the camcorder. they base it on a quasi reality of These people don't know where the monster came from so we are not going to know either. Why do WE need to know the whole back story of why was the monster there? Where did it come from? How do we stop it? No. we ARE the camera guy in the group as we run for our lives trying to survive.

Normaly when I go to a movie People are a buzz talking on the way out. This time no one said a word as if they were too afraid to talk above a whisper.

I say go see it. Many will agree with me and many will say it is nothworth the time, but opinions are like assholes everyone has one and it stinks. Don't rely on the hear say of others. If you were hooked by the trailer then go see it. you will either love it or hate it. I am one that LOVED it.