Connor, unfortunately, has way too much time on his hands... so, yes, I did know that HM was back online. Not that I've had the time to post the last pic I colored or finish the manip I started while it was down...

And, yes, as VL said, Shandril did pass away on 1/25 after her nearly year long battle with cancer. And you needn't worry about announcing it VL, I would have myself when it happened if the site hadn't been kaput.

She did have a chance to see the pics of Harley that VL colored, and the manip of her that OCP did and she liked them very much. Even though she is gone, I'm sure that if Daruma and Dark Wanderer finish their manips, and anyone else that wants to do one, she will see those pictures too. And, they will get printed out, framed, and put up on the wall with her portrait like the others.

Now to finish arranging music and picking pictures for the memorial service on Saturday. And then maybe some manip work ... or beer ... or both until one interferes with the other...
