First of all, great new design on the Heromorph site. The transitions of colours is wonderful to fill as a background. Makes the whole place seem more alive and welcoming.

Secondly, this is a pretty clear rendition of the series and for its effort does well. I'm highly optimistic those using this as the rough map for the whole show can be reminded on the big plot points. It also goes to show how Western the principles of character-driven storylines are, which is fine. Also, does anyone feel this echos off videogames like Myst?

Either way this place has a great community.
