I cannot live a lie any longer. I have decided to come clean.

I would like to announce to everyone that Vampire Lover and I are really the same person. It has been very difficult trying to be two people on the site, what with all the posts and comments, and trying to draw and sketch and manip and all that other work, just to try and foster the illusion that we are two people, one male and one female. The hardest part has been commenting on my own work in two different personas.

Thank goodness I can stop this charade at last.

I apologize to everyone for this ruse. I actually didn't think I could keep it going this long.
