Finally I saw Iron Man.

And all I have to say is I'm not disapointed, this was one of the best superhero movies i've seen in a long time, and believe me I've seen probably almost all of them...

Downey is Tony Stark, the guy convinced me and I hope they keep him for the sequel.

People have said lots of things about this movie here about what they liked, but to me one thing I liked was that at the end of the movie Stark admitted he is Iron Man because that was one of the things I never understood in the early comics, Why such an arrogant asshole like Stark would let people think the he only created the armour?

This movie is in my top ten best superheroes ever made!

Now...Go see it...You wont regret it...
