while i may not respect the reasons we went to war, i DO however respect the soldier's and contractors who went to war. whether or not it was the right thing is not the question, but rather their courage in risking their lives everyday they are there, simply because they were asked to. not everyone, hell, very few would do that willingly, and so i respect those who do immensely. Most soldiers i know, (those i share classes with), tend to be very nice, unnarrogant people, and deal well with the naysayers and those unappreciative of what they do.

i wish you luck MC, and all those who serve with you.

Happy fourth of July!
