I'm with Devine when it comes to this whole "B-list star" theme most seem to think is the ingredient of success for Batman Begins and Dark Knight. These movies is far from having B-list stars in them.

Morgan Freeman, Gary Oldman, Liam Neisen and Michael Cain are the farthest thing from B-list actors. Christian Bale has been a popular actor since American Psycho and yes, Heath Ledger was a popular actor before he died. Not to mention Aaron Eckhart has had a following since "Thank You for Smoking".

These movies have big named actors in them so it's not unthinkable to cast a big name star to play Catwoman. Jolie could do a very good job playing Catwoman, I think especially if she uses the same sultry voice she did in Beowulf (yes, I mentioned Beowulf). We already know she looks hot in black leather and with a wip (Mr. & Mrs. Smith) so she could deffinetely play the part.

Mark Hammil would make an excellent Joker, but he is to old for the part.
