Well, I'm also one of those who doesen't comment on stuff I like nearly as often as I should (of course, I make it a point to never comment on something I don't like since someone has got to appreciate it

Along the same lines, I won't raise a fuss if none of my images get any comments. For me, seeing the hit count creep slowly up is enough for me (and anything over 10 or so hits is a success in my book ). However, if comments tend to be regularly and often bad I am eventually prodded into posting a response comment.

I don't mind constructive criticism ("Adjust lighting for better ahadows" and the like [even if my system can't ]), but some other critical comments ("Boobs R Too Big") can get a bit frustrating after awhile

I will try to make more comments, however (hopefully
).
