well, i kinda agree with ya ods, in that it takes a bit more hard work to make 3d actually art, as yeah, i've been to renderosity, and i know EXACTLY wut you mean. but i still think my analogy holds true, because, the computer is merely a tool. yes poser/DS makes the proportions correct and wutnot, but thats not all a picture needs. it needs inspiration and heart, and THATS wut makes 3d just a tool, because that is dependent on the artist, not the program.

hope i'm making at least a little sense.
