

Forum: HM General Chit Chat

Topic: Anyone using a tablet PC?

Subject: Re: Anyone using a tablet PC?

Posted by: HubCap

Posted on: 2008/9/30 11:28:21

Quote:

chillyplasma wrote:

I think the important matter here is... you had to get your wife's permission?!?!

Whipped.

How long have you been using your tablet? I felt odd for the first few days when I started using it, but now it feels totally normal. Only real advice is to give it a test-drive before you buy.

Yea whipped is a word for it ;) I am just a bad boy that grabs up gadgets I already have a 17" widescreen gaming laptop and my desktop and mobile smartphone and MP3 player and....

You use a wacom or other tablet Chilly? I tried and tried but couldn't get used to it. The way were you are on the tablet to the way it relates to where you are on the screen was just a big turn-off for me. Albeit I don't have a true Wacon tablet I still don't care for it.

I was hoping someone here had some experience with any kind of tablet convertible or slate. The deal I'm getting is hard to pass up $499 for a machine that was $1999-2100 when it first came out is just to good to pass up.

The only reservation I have is I've seen pics of it up against a older Fujitsu one and the screen brightness on the Fujitsu is ALOT better.