Suresh will probably develop, not so much as the "Fly", but more along a Spider-Man type.

The Suresh character lost my interest halfway through the first season; his altruism is far closer to face palming nauseatingly moronic, than interestingly conflicted. His recent sanity slippage showed some hope, but I dislike him so much that I do not really care

As much as I like Hiro; his innocence is becoming unbelievable/unsustainable, especially since he?s smart and a quick study.

I?m not sure what would be a good storyline for an ultimate power like Peter would be; but making him immature and stupid isn?t the direction I?d choose.

Claire, Noah and Sylar are much more interesting.

It was an interesting tip of the hat, to have a German magnetic-energy touting villain.
