Now I see the images have been transfered to Mania, but sans credits. You can't search the gallery or tell who made what unless the artist mentioned himself in the title or caption. I hope they fix that.

I have to agree with you there Mutt, I posted a comment on there announcement thread that they had going to the C2f community about not being overly happy that the Names or credits were not transfered over. So far they haven't responded yet.

I really really hope that they either fix it soon or respond because I don't really want to go thru the 700 plus pages of galleries until I find all the images I did to request their removal.
