I think DK and I are relatively close to done. I've finished the costuming for my character. It's not going to be as interesting artistically as some of my work (or, some of the other collaborations, probably), but I have very little time to spare for this.

I knew in advance that I'd have time problems, mind you, and still wanted to participate. I'm glad I could in fact do so!

As for coming here to play... I do check this site out fairly regularly, once every 2-3 days. I look at the art and try to regularly read the MBs. I just don't have time to participate too actively here, so I'm mostly a lurker. Plus, like Dan said, C2F is my online home. I'll always be more active there than I am here, probably. But I will try to be a bit more active, when I can... I really ought to start commenting on the art, if nothing else. I've been told I do that quite well.
