Yes, please no spoilers. I haven't a clue who these people are and I only have general idea of the plot because I asked someone.

I like the new costumes to an extent. I think they look way better than what I saw on Wiki for the old comics, but I'm not too big on the girl's (Silk?) costume because it only looks like she's wearing something skimpy, and it looks like a cheesy cop out to me. If they're going to give her something supersexy, figure out how to do it, rework it so it works, or give her something else!

I do like the updated versions of all the costumes though. One of the reasons it took me so long to get into heroes is how...well, stupid, the costumes looked to me. I couldn't think of any self-respecting person that would actually come up with costumes like that, wear them, and actually go out into public like that! The way they are doing things now puts the kind of realism into heroes that I've needed to see. I still don't read comics for the exact reasons I've just given.
