All members should now be able to update and delete their own artwork in the galleries.

there is a little icon that looks like this that should appear beside the title of an image that you have posted. this will take you to the edit screen.. Once there you can upload a new version of the image change the text describing the image or delete the image.

This was previously a gold member only ability. but now all registered members are be able to do this.

Updating an image counts towards your daily posting limit as per the posting policy as updated images are brought back to the top of the gallery.
