This can't be real. Uh, I think.

However, I will say, that of the very little Russian I have been taught, a phrase I remember from college is:

"Продайте меня вашy сестрy"

Pronounced proda-eechay menyah vashoo sestroo.

It means "Sell me your sister." (the way it's written, it's an order, not a request)

If they taught me that in school, imagine how crazy it really is there...

So on second thought, I can believe this story, too.

PS, no offense to anyone intended, I was really taught this phrase.
