I don't know or understand the program you are using, so I'm not much help - but can you incorporate or do you want to incorporate the changes Redd is suggesting?

I'm appreciative of Red's critique, but it doesn't really apply to what I am doing. All of her suggestions, while for the most part accurate, seem geared towards a realistic depiction of the female anatomy. While I think I can understand where it's coming from my piece is really a more stylized approach to an idealized form. I know few appreciate my abstract scribbles, but they are of the visions that hold my interest.

It may be of some interest, to those following this thread, to know that the female form I was inspired by was Pamela Anderson/Lee/Anderson/Rock/Anderson/Salomon/Anderson.
