 Talking about movies that sucked..... the suckiest of all suckfests was Daredevil. It made Catwoman look like an academy award winner.

And when ever Wonder Woman comes out... that is going to suck too!

The problem Hollywood runs into is making what they want and what they thing viewers want. What they don't take into account are the masses of comic book fans that know exactly what they want to see and Hollywood never produces that. Well, Sin City was a perfect comic book adaptation. And I never read Watchmen, but I hear it is pretty dead on too. I loved both of these mentioned movies... But my sister and brother-n-law didn't like either. So where is the fine line of being able to script a movie that will make both comic book fans and those other normal nerd enjoy the same movie. That is the question.

And I never saw Wolverine... so I can't chime in on it suckin.
