They are sure in a rush to cut and redo properties that have already have their chance. I personally would rather they continue the property with a new writer and director team. Or give a new group of heroes a chance to have their own movie.

It isn't like Marvel doesn't have an ass load of characters that they could make into movies. Why keep rehashing the same ones, Since the FF movies were not complete failures I really do not see the need to reboot, it isn't like they are even old yet.
