

Forum: Challenges & Duels

Topic: Homework/Challenge Thread

Subject: Re: Homework/Challenge Thread

Posted by: matrixblur

Posted on: 2004/8/14 9:24:57

I for one, am always out to improve myself, and love the whole experimentation process. Some advice and direction from my peers is a great idea. I would like to sign up for this, but I don't know what kind of deadline there is. I tend to work a bit at a time on a manip and that usually means about a month per. Plus I am trying to finish a project that I started a loong time ago (remember EVA, check out HFAC).

So, depending on your timeframe, count me in.

I really want to hear what areas people think I can improve on, and if its the same as my own: backgrounds. If it is, then great, because that was going to be my focus for the EVA project. If there are other ideas, then even better, but they will have to wait until I finish with EVA. It is certainly plausible to beleive that I have more than a few areas I can improve on.