I don't think someone said this before so let's go:

This thread, although deliciously interesting, is not going to change anything nor anyone. Bad artists will keep doing bad art and a few of them are going to improve their skills with luck.

The thread only means something to those who, like me, are tired of seeing monstrosities every day. It's like a psychiatric session in which we can release our demons and frustrations. No "bad" artist will read this. They don't care. Actually I think they don't read anything around here.

I believe that those who can't stand the atrocities posted here should visit other sites where webmasters don't allow them. You know where are these sites. I often visit them and, damn!, they're good! Heromorph does not follow this ideology so... we just need to relax! Let it go.

When someone posts a devious and horrid pic, my blood boils! I know he or she doesn't have the slightest comprehension of what is beautyfulness. Unfortunately, this is my problem! Not his or hers!
