A touchy subject indeed. but in all actuality 'commenting on images here has become a chore'. I used to try to comment on every image i looked at whether positive, negative or constructive. Sadly I rarely comment anymore. Not because i choose not to but the "Taking you Back" glitch really bugs the hell out of me. Not only that but posting in the forums too has become a problem since it only alots you a certain amount of time to work with. It gets tedious when you write a sparkling reveiw and then lose it because of that problem, and contrary to popular belief copying and pasting your comment doesn't always work. so more than often i make my comments as simple as possible if at all. Seems like i remember there being mods appointed to offer critiques and such at one time wayyyy back. What ever happened to that?
