As an added note, if you're going to critique someone's work you should include some tips to help. Simply putting "Your art sucks and this is why" you should try to be considerate and not insulting helpful not hurtful. Many people here are working in mediums they've never explored before (3D for example) and could use help from those more experienced. In short we're not here to bash other people's art we're here to network ideas and raise the quality of OUR work.
