Bartman from Bongo Comics is quite capable on his own. He hasn't hit his teens yet, but is well above sidekick level.

Also, most teens, especially the sidekicks, are stupid, inept and generally make a really big mess of things before everything gets accidentally solved nicely and neatly in the end. For some reason, noone thinks kids can be effective superheroes without an insane amount of luck. Except for some recent ones, none of them really have a whole lot of skill.
