Due to the overwhelming response to the nominations in the last couple of days before the cut off, the other judge and I are going to take a couple more days to sort threw them all. Already a few of the nominations have been cut because they did not meet the eligibility guidelines provided in the first post. Due to the high number of nominations in some categories some additional cuts might be made. As well some categories did not receive many nominations, so we will be adding some nominations to certain categories.

Thank you for your patience.
