Like a lot of others have said here, I was never a fan of the "Ultimate" Marvel Universe, in fact I'm surprised that it's lasted as long as it has since I wrote it off long ago as another fad alternate universe that would have come and gone like the whole 2099 stuff, and I actually liked that universe!

As for these released Cap Movie pics, I read some posts on another site that showed the same pics and a lot of people there mentioned that the "fat guy" is just a stunt double and that the costume he's wearing is just his accompanying stunt costume, therefore it's not as detailed or form fitting as the real one that Chris Evans will be wearing since you won't be seeing it close up, but in action scenes like the motorcycle chase that they are filming here in these photos. Although on the other hand, they better have some really great post production effects or this will still turn out to look really hokey.
