Has anyone heard about this. We all know that this is the last season for Smallville, but I've heard that they plan to fill it's spot with a Raven adventure show? Now don't get me wrong I think that Raven is one of the more intriguing DC characters with plenty of background story to work with, but let's face it she's always been a role player. Even when she was with the Titans you would tend to forget about her. Now maybe they'll pep up her personality abit to make her more appealing to the TV audience, but really can't they come up with a better choice?
