My impression from this photo is it appears as though this movie is designed to appeal to a younger crowd that is interested in anime/manga.

The guy is young, skinny and looks moody (typical of anime heroes) and the design feels familiar to other anime versions of American superheroes.

Not saying it's good or bad, but seems quite out of step with other recent Marvel movies that are avoiding the teen characters and concentrating on adult heroes.

The one thing I am sick of is the rubber-wetsuit superhero costumes.
