They have a series on Discovery or Travel or one of those channels called "Lost Tapes" It is based on "real life" found tapes and it is about monsters and sh!t. I find that show interesting and fun to watch because it is only 30 minutes long. (or is it an hour...) If it was any longer it would be unwatchable. I find it funny though that these "lost tapes" are shot from 3 and 4 points of views. Hell, one lost tape was of a girl that disappeared on her boat and it was videoed from a helicopter. HAHA. SOOOOO stupid... but entertaining.

Now as for the movies. Yup... I don't really like them. They have one or two moments that might make you jump... but as a whole they are pretty boring.
