No one can tell me manipping is dead. I know a lot of artists are into the 3D stuff and that's cool, I see incredible 3D art here everyday, but it was the photomanipulations that brought me here to Heromorph first as an observer then as a manipulator. I'm not 100% sure but I believe a lot of the 3D artists started as manipulators. Including several who were my original sources of manipulation inspiration. Once a manipulator always a manipulator (or was that Avenger?). No matter how many ways you can always come back home.
