An interesting challenge. Yes, I usually let the lines go where they want to on my originals. Frank Lloyd Wright's my inspiration on much of the Zen of that, and 1 in 10 or so kicks serious ass when I'm through with it. Doing it the copyrighted way just seems so cookie-cutter to me...but OK, I asked for a challenge. (And I understand that creativity is measured by what you started with, not by what you finished with). And the big lawyer shops (meaning DC/Marvel) don't give us much (I ain't impressed with their creativity).

Well known... my heart's really only beat for the big four: Super Girl, Marvel Girl, Power Girl, and Rogue, so it'll be one of those.

Nude. Not a problem. More work, but not a problem.

I'll get to work on that right away...already sifting through my raw-image junkyard for something...

Thank you sensai. I'm sure I'll have learned things when I'm done that I can't see from here.
