Okay Dack and Star, I've known you both a while so let me just say that you should know by now that if you expect ANY live action superhero TV series to be like the comic, prepare to be disappointed!

That said, there's some interesting things going on in the first couple episodes I watched. I'm intrigued. I haven't seen the 3rd yet but I'll check it out "on-demand" (On-demand has disabled the fast forward on Flash; that's just wrong).

I was myself pleasantly surprised to see Simon Stagg show up and shocked to see him killed off so abruptly!

However, perhaps you shouldn't get too upset about it just yet, Dack... I myself think he's just too rich a character (did I just pun?) to just kill off so quickly and since the plot of the episode revolved around a guy who make clones of himself trying to get his research data back from Stagg, it's conceivable that Stagg had used exactly that research to send in a clone of himself which got killed.
