I find it funny that in the trailer they have: "From the studio that brought you -X-men days of future past" But the from the studio part is tiny and only on screen for about a fraction of a second but the X-men name and logo are huge and linger for a long time, but no one from X-men is involved in this film at all.

The trailer did absolutely nothing to get me excited about the film or to diminish the concerns that I have of this production. It appears they have made so many changes why do they even want to call it fantastic four.
