Hyde is already on Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D., so the only way he's showing up on Daredevil is if they do a crossover episode or get the actor to show up on the other show. Since Marvel's stuff is all connected, it's totally possible. I believe that Elektra was hinted at already as there was a scene with Matt and Foggy talking about a mysterious Greek girl. It was a good show, and I too look forward to seeing more foes in the next season.

Daredevil is already in the MCU and with that in the hat the Characters that have been introduced in the films and TV series are able to be brought into any of the other shows...the example of Carl "Crusher" Creel [http://marvelcinematicuniverse.wikia.com/wiki/Absorbing_Man] springs up right away since that is the same Creel that was in Agents as Absorbing Man according to the writers.
