I just don't know about this.

I think with all of the characters and powers this particular series may have the issue of budget problems with the special effects. On TV they can only offer so much for the shows to work with in their budget, so the larger the cast the less left over for other things, the more characters with powers the more they need for the other things.

If this wasn't a cw show, I wouldn't be as concerned but I could see the show have either sub-standard effects, or lame reasons why the heroes can not use the powers we know they have to save money on the effects budget to the point where it detracts from the show.
