

Forum: Challenges & Duels

Topic: 2005 Crossover

Subject: 2005 Crossover

Posted by: F-max

Posted on: 2004/12/20 17:48:06

I enjoyed the team-up with C2F this year, I think everyone did, and a lot of people are already looking forward to a 2 double-oh 5 bash.

As one of the de-facto organisers last year I have been thinking about how to organise the next cross-over.

The first option is we do the same as before, one artist from each site teams up and everyone feels the love (not literally).

An idea I have been thinking about is this:

Artists at each site enter their names but must also choose a division; Rookie, Cruiserweight or Veteran.

Rookies being beginners, Cruiserweight more experienced and Veterans being very good.

Artists are then randomly matched up with an artist from the other site (who is in the same division) that they will ??????do battle????? with. That way there should be no unfair contests.

The artists then go head-to-head to see who can make the best pic. The artists decide a finish date between them and can use any base pics, characters or mediums they like.

After posting the winners get decided by poll.

What does everyone think? Any other ideas? The second option is more competitive which could be a good or a bad thing. However it goes we have lots of time to work it out.

Max ?????? I?????m thinking of getting an injury next year?????