

Forum: Challenges & Duels

Topic: 2005 Crossover

Subject: Re: 2005 Crossover

Posted by: F-max

Posted on: 2004/12/26 12:07:09

Everyone's kind of jumping the gun... the idea was we start talking about what we want to do next year and get some kind of consensus.

I take it that those who have put themselves into a 'category' want a head to head competition instead of another team-up?

Care to tell us why and start discussing other stuff, e.g. what time of year shall we run this and how long do we run it for?

My personal preference is for single competition.

1. Because we've already done a team-up.
2. Because when artists didn't finish last year they were letting their teammate down. We could set up solo competition so that the artists could submit whatever image they were working on at the time, possibly reducing the no-shows.

There could be other options, maybe teams from HM vs teams from C2F?

Max - don't jump on guns.