

Forum: Challenges & Duels

Topic: 2005 Crossover

Subject: I'm not in.

Posted by: Guest

Posted on: 2004/12/30 11:01:46

Besides the fact that I don't like deadlines or being told what to draw. I also tend to think that a competition is a bad idea.

The blood between Heromorph and C2F is thin as it is (and I won't get your blood boiling by stating my thoughts on that). A competition will just make the rift between the two sites wider.

Too many artists think they're the best in the world and don't take kindly being told otherwise. I know them. Both here and at C2F. No, I'm not going to name names.

Competition between artists is just never a good idea.

We have something like that here called duels. I dueled a buddy and he lost. I know his feelings got hurt, though he got over it quick, I'm sure. But still it stung. It was also hard because mutual friends had to do the judging.

Really...artists should just never compete. It's not a foot race, it's a very subjective field with no clear cut line at the end to say who really was better. Fact is, most all of us excel at what we do in different style, mood, etc. It's not fair to compare them.