Bad blood? I haven't noticed any, except for the odd individual tirade, there is usually worse going on within the sites than directed outwardly.

Competitions can be bad when people are involved who are obsessed with winning, whether it's the Olympics or quiz night at the pub (you'll be amazed at what a person will do to win a pair of navelty slippers).

Perhaps we could run 2 or 3 events at the same time. A competition for those who promise to behave and be good sports, some mixed teams who just work together on a group pic and a general theme for individuals.

Max - it's also tax deductible
