In the past at Heromorph we have had a few Group projects, one of my favorites have been the call to arms pictures that have been done.

You can see the past attempts at the following links.

The call to arms projects are independent of the monthly challenges and do not have a prize.

Basically sign up by replying to this thread if you are interested. How many people that sign up will determine the rest of the rules.

But basically if you sign up, you will be signing up to do at least one model for a larger group project.

If we get a good response we will split up into teams and each team will need a team leader to oversee their teams picture. There will be a deadline so do not sign up if you have trouble sticking to deadlines and due dates. Any member of Heromorph can join but this will be a photomanip project.

Well sign up already.
