is this the final design for the costume or just a test/promo costume? anyone know

as far as i know this is the finished design. and i think i might have a reason for the s being so small. i was watching the special features for spiderman 2 and there was some concern about making the spider symbol larger because of framing close ups. if the spider was large they would have to pull back more , maybe this is what they were thinking about when designing Superman. although, i may be wrong, i have  nothing to do with the film industry.
