I like the Idea of The daily update thing but i don't think everyone has a web site to post their stuff. I will had to do some work on mine, it is plum full.(why no december update yet) So i will probably ask my server to increase my web site space this weekend and give you all the address of where to find my work in progress. And for those without a web address i can post your work in progress aswell if you want. But i will also continue to update everyone here on a regular basis, as i am here anyway.

Also everyone, I sent out a e-mail with some additional details and an example file of what i want sent to me when you are all done. did everyone receive this e-mail. Let me know.

Just started my manip tonight.
