Funny thing is that everyone saying it will suck will be there opening weekend. Hah!

I'm just against pre-judging anything where people are putting their time, heart and effort into something. It's really not fair. Imagine that before ANYTHING you did, people were off to the side saying how much it was going to suck. With that logic, why should anyone do anything? It's already been determined it's going to fail. Turn that frown upside down, people.
